ABSTRACT

A method of providing a region-based delivery order and a server and a wireless terminal configured to perform the method are disclosed. The method of providing the region-based delivery order performed by the server includes receiving delivery orders including information on a store position that is a departure position of each of the delivery orders and information on a delivery position that is an arrival position of each of the delivery orders, identifying information on a terminal position of a wireless terminal of a rider performing delivery according to the delivery orders and information on a service region of a branch to which the rider belongs and a supply region of the branch, determining i) the store position of each of the delivery orders and the delivery position of each of the delivery orders, ii) the service region and the supply region, and iii) a type of the delivery orders according to a relationship of the terminal position, and providing the delivery orders and the determined type of the delivery orders to the wireless terminal.

FIG. 1