

Abstract

The present invention relates to a lipid compound for forming a nanodrug carrier. The lipid compound can form a nanocomplex that selectively and efficiently delivers a pharmaceutically active molecule, and reduce or minimize treatment-associated toxicity. The present invention also relates to a nanocomplex comprising the lipid compound and a pharmaceutically active molecule, and a pharmaceutical composition comprising the nanocomplex.