

INFORMATION PROCESSING DEVICE, PROGRAM, NON-TRANSITORY STORAGE
MEDIUM, AND INFORMATION PROCESSING METHOD

ABSTRACT

An information processing device includes a control unit configured to: acquire information about a service that can be provided by a service provider; acquire information about a need for a service desired to be received by a service receiver; acquire information about travel expected to be made by the service provider; extract a need that can be handled by the service provider providing the service during the travel, among needs that can be handled by the service; and transmit information about the extracted need to a terminal device of the service provider.

FIG. 2