Terminal for trading on the exchange markets

Abstract

The invention relates to the systems for assistance in financial transactions. The terminal for trading on the exchange markets, comprising of a monitor for displaying of target information with a keyboard-type input device, a money input device for financial operations, as well as with communication devices for remote servers and a computing device for graphic information displaying in the fields of an interface displayed on the monitor screen and for settlement transactions. The computing device has a feature of quotations broadcasting received from the exchange markets or information agencies and with a feature of transfer, by a signal of the trading session termination, of a premium to the current account of the payer or distribution of a premium through the payment device. The terminal has a unit of the stake or transaction amount choice and limiting of risks to the amount of this stake or transaction, and the computing device as an additional option of implementation of feature of transactions calculation, input of the price of change of at least one rate and input of increased or decreased stake or invariance stake at least of one future quotation.

(No suitable figure)