

DATA COMMUNICATION METHOD AND APPARATUS

Abstract

Provided are a data communication method and device, the method comprising: receiving a plugin execution instruction transmitted by a server according to a first channel, the plugin execution instruction being used to instruct to operate a target plugin; according to the plugin execution instruction, calling the target plugin to operate, and feeding back operation result data to the server via the first channel for processing, such that the server feeds back a processing result to a browser. The present invention realizes the compatibility of each browser.

Figure 2