

ABSTRACT

A method for viewing a virtual environment, comprising: displaying a first environment picture of an application, the first environment picture comprising a virtual object in a first scene; receiving a move operation, the move operation being used to transfer the virtual object from the first scene to a second scene; adjusting a first viewing means to a second viewing means according to the motion operation; displaying a second environment picture of the application, the second environment picture comprising the virtual object in the second scene.