

FLOOD ALLEVIATION METHODS AND SYSTEM FOR URBAN OPEN CHANNEL NETWORK

Abstract

Methods and system of improving water flow characteristics of an urban open drainage channel network that consists of installing controllable flow control means upstream to identified flood prone sections, installing flow improvement means downstream to identified flood prone sections, diverting rainwater to sections of the network with capacity to receive more water when flooding occurs.

No Figure