Footnotes

- 1) Consumption of iron supplements was stopped, or iron containing multivitamins were switched to vitamins not containing iron, for at least four weeks before screening. Screening took place up to four weeks prior to enrollment. The time between screening and enrollment was minimal as practical.
- 2) Limited physical exam by a licensed physician or advanced practice nurse targeting the circulatory and digestive systems
- 3) Urine was collected from all female participants for pregnancy testing.
- 4) AE review began at the time of enrollment and continued until Week 10/Visit 9 and was completed by clinical personnel at every visit.
- 5) Current concomitant medication and dose capture, including compliance with Composition A, began at the time of screening (30 days prior) and continued until Week 10/Visit 9 and was completed by clinical personnel at every visit.
- 6) General questioning about dietary changes and menses status and regularity since last contact was completed by clinical personnel at every visit.
- 7) Vital signs included blood pressure, heart rate, temperature and weight.
- 8) Local labs included serum iron, TIBC, serum ferritin, C-reactive protein, CBC with differential, and CMP
- 9) Health Survey questionnaires were reviewed for completeness, unreported AEs or discrepancies in the subject's health record, and collected by clinical personnel at every visit.
- 10) Screening stool sample was collected as close to the enrollment visit as possible. Week 8 stool sample was collected just prior to discontinuation of Composition A. All other stool samples were collected just prior to the coinciding visit.
