

Abstract

INTRAVENOUS CATHETER DEVICE WITH INTEGRATED EXTENSION TUBE

The present invention relates to peripheral intravenous catheters, and in particular to an integrated peripheral intravenous catheter having a low profile securement platform, a needle hub having an interior compartment and further comprising a paddle grip, and an extension tube coupled to the catheter and stored within the interior compartment of the needle hub prior to catheterization.

Figure 4A