Abstract

The invention relates to an aqueous pharmaceutical preparation comprising an antibody against endothelial growth factor receptor (EGF receptor). The preparation has increased storage stability, even at elevated temperatures, and can be used for the treatment of tumours.