

ABSTRACT

Embodiments of the present disclosure provide methods and apparatuses for obtaining sample images, and electronic devices. The method includes: acquiring images of stacked objects, wherein stacked objects in different images have different item information, and the item information includes: attributes of the stacked objects and a combination of stacking modes; and taking an acquired image as a sample image in the case that the acquired image meets a filtering condition of image quality.

Fig. 1