ABSTRACT

Use of novel monoclonal antibodies targeting human embryonic stem cells to characterize and kill induced pluripotent stem cells

The invention relates to human embryonic stem cell-specific monoclonal antibodies that bind to and characterize IPS cells. The invention also relates to the use of mAb 84 was to kill induced pluripotent stem cells.

Fig. None