

REDISTRIBUTION OF ORGANIC
POLYESTERCARBONATE COMPOSITIONS

Abstract

Polyestercarbonates, particularly those containing aliphatic dicarboxylic acid-derived structural units, are redistributed by heating in the presence of a carbonate redistribution catalyst, and, optionally, a diaryl carbonate. The redistribution products have weight average molecular weights different from, and typically lower than, the initial molecular weight.

5