METHODS FOR PREDICTING RISK OF DEVELOPING HYPERTENSION

ABSTRACT

Methods using biomarkers, e.g., serum levels of ST2, to predict risk of developing hypertension, as well as methods for treating subjects to reduce the risk of developing hypertension and methods for selecting and/or stratifying subjects for clinical trials of treatments to reduce the risk of hypertension.

[No suitable figure]