

[ABSTRACT]

The present application relates to a novel promoter and a method for producing target materials using the same. More specifically, the present application relates to a novel polynucleotide having promoter activity, a gene expression cassette, and a host cell comprising the same, and a method for producing target materials using the microorganism.