

ABSTRACT

An identification for sheet-like adhesive systems
- dermal and transdermal therapeutic administration forms
- using a plaster as information carrier is characterized in that the plaster is provided with an electronically identifiable coding.