

ABSTRACT

A railcar bogie includes: a bogie frame; a first axle box accommodating a first bearing supporting a first axle; a second axle box accommodating a second bearing supporting a second axle; a supporting device connected to the bogie frame and also connected to the first axle box or a member provided at the first axle box, unsprung vibration being transferred to the first axle box; and a third-rail current collector attached to the supporting device.