

A MODIFIED FOOD PRODUCT SUITABLE FOR USE IN THE TREATMENT AND AMELIORATION OF THE SYMPTOMS OF DIABETES AND OTHER DISORDERS RELATED TO THE METABOLISM OF SUGARS AND CARBOHYDRATES.

The composition involves including an extract of wild buckwheat shells and wild mulberry leaves into food products. Food compositions according to the invention can be manufactured as porridge type products, products based on flour for example noodles, biscuits, dough based products and dough based biscuits. Alternatively, the food products can be constituted as teas.