Method and device for producing solar modules

Abstract

The invention relates to improvements in the technical field of the production of solar modules. Proposed inter alia for this purpose is a method for producing solar modules (2) in which at least two or more lines (4) of photovoltaic cells (3) are co-fed to a cell-fitting operation for a solar module (2).

[Figure 1]