ABSTRACT

A polishing apparatus capable of measuring a surface temperature of a substrate while suppressing shielding by a polishing liquid is disclosed. The polishing apparatus includes a microwave detection sensor configured to generate microwave detection data by detecting microwaves, and a controller configured to determine the surface temperature of the substrate based on the microwave detection data.

FIG. 2