

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

OVER-THE-AIR PROVISIONING OF APPLICATION LIBRARY

Techniques for updating an application installed on a communication device may include determining that an update for a private portion of the application is available at a server, sending a request for the update to the server, receiving an updated version of the private portion from the server, and installing the updated version of the private portion on the portable communication device without updating the public portion.

FIG. 6