

ABSTRACT

Disclosed are an electric robot, a charger, and a charging system including: a battery that is charged through a first charging terminal; a first relay for determining whether to supply power to the battery; a first communication unit for communicating with the charger, and a first controller for blocking the first relay when a voltage abnormality signal on the charger side is received.

[FIG. 1]