

Abstract

Provided are a catalyst structure for ozone decomposition including a support containing a porous inorganic material, and an α -MnO₂ catalyst located on at least a portion of inner pores and a surface of the support, an air-cleaning method using the same, and an air-cleaning device and an air-cleaning system each including the catalyst structure for ozone decomposition.