What is claimed is:

1. A protective grid with an adjustable size, comprising frames, characterized in that the frames are composed of horizontal frames (1) and vertical frames (3); the protective grid also comprises an adjusting device (2) which is used for connecting the horizontal frames (1) and the vertical frames (3), wherein the adjusting device (2) comprises a first mating block (25) and a sleeving block (26) used for sleeving the first mating block on the outer side; the protective grid also comprises screws via which the first mating block (25) and the sleeving block (26) are connected between the horizontal frames (1) and the vertical frames (3); the first mating block (25) comprises drawers (251) and a rectangular block (252) used for connecting two of the drawers (251) vertical to each other; and each one of the drawers (251) is formed with a third recess, characterized in that the end faces of the rectangular block (252) which are connected with the drawers (251) are provided with through holes.