

POWDER COMPOSITION

ABSTRACT

An object of the present invention is to provide a powder composition having an excellent ability to retain fragrance components derived from tea leaves.

In a powder composition comprising a tea leaf extract, a dextrin is added to adjust the molecular weight distribution of the composition such that the percentage of a molecular weight fraction of not less than 250,000 falls within the range of from 0.5 to 10%.