

Abstract of the Disclosure

For fastening tie rods and similar anchoring means, a curable two-component mortar composition is used. The curable component, consisting of finely divided cement, and the curing agent of the mortar composition, consisting of silicate, are kept separate to inhibit reaction and are caused to react by being mixed.

This Sheet Has Been Replaced

