

Abstract

The invention relates to a device for magnetic field therapy which is preferably adapted for producing nuclear 5 magnetic resonances in the tissue to be treated. The device comprises a base and two side parts having coils integrated therein.

- Fig. 1 -