

Abstract

An entertainment providing system 1 includes: a placement reception section 151 configured to accept placement of tokens owned by a fan; an authority setting section 152 configured to set an input authority of an instruction related to a sporting event to the fan who has placed the tokens; an instruction acquiring section 153 configured to acquire the instruction based on the tokens from one or more first communication terminals used by one or more fans; an instruction aggregation section 154 configured to aggregate one or more instructions; an information transmitting section 155 configured to transmit an aggregation result aggregated by the instruction aggregation section 154 to a second communication terminal that a sport participant is to look up to display the aggregation result on the second communication terminal; a privilege grant section 156 configured to grant a privilege to any one or more of the fans who have issued the instruction adopted by the sport participant; and a distribution executing section 157 configured to distribute the tokens acquired from one or more of the fans to sport participants.