

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to an induction cooking system and, more specifically, to an under-induction cooking system which can accurately match a pad and an induction cooker, used as one set, and, simultaneously, ensure safety in use by multiple ways, thereby preventing an accident, such as fire caused by the induction cooker, in advance.