

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a method for detecting an image abnormality and an apparatus for detecting an image abnormality. The method for detecting an image abnormality according to an embodiment may comprise the steps of: extracting a text feature and a visual feature from an input image divided into a plurality of snippets; synthesizing the extracted features; and detecting an image abnormality on the basis of the synthesis result.

FIG. 5