

ABSTRACT

5 A level setting means for adjusting the brightness (30) of a television receiver is modified by the setting of an amplitude control means for adjusting the contrast (20) such that the maximum brightness level of the image on a CRT is modified in direct relationship to the adjusted level of contrast.