APPARATUSES AND METHODS FOR IDENTIFYING EMAIL AND EMAIL SERVERS

ABSTRACT

A message body carried by an Internet Protocol (IP) packet is identified; the message body is searched for features of an email message; and a result of the search is used to determine if the IP packet is associated with email. The features of an email message include multiple words usually associated with email messages.

Figure 3