

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A multimedia communication system is constructed by a terminal device for user which is used for the user to receive information, a terminal device for 5 information provider which is used by an information provider to provide the information to the user, a network to which each of the terminal devices is connected, and a reservation unit for circulating a reservation table to select and reserve the information 10 that is received by the user and a reception time between the terminal device for information provider and the terminal device for user.

15

20

This Sheet Has Been Replaced

THIS SHEET HAS BEEN REPLACED