

ABSTRACT

The present disclosure provides an object processing method, an apparatus, a device, and a storage medium. The method includes: displaying target prompt information on a first page, where the target prompt information is triggered to be displayed based on an object information update message for a target object set, and the object information update message is used to represent that object information of at least one target object in the target object set is updated; and in response to a trigger operation for the target prompt information, displaying a second page and displaying the at least one target object in a preset manner on the second page.