

ABSTRACT

Disclosed in embodiments of the present disclosure are a photographing method and apparatus, an electronic device, and a storage medium. The method comprises: in response to a first triggering operation for a preset control on a first photographing page, displaying a first preset interface, wherein the first preset interface comprises a plurality of first template identifiers and a first photographing control; in response to a second triggering operation acting on a target template identifier, applying a photographing template associated with the target template identifier to a photographing object; in response to an operation acting on the first photographing control, concealing the first preset interface, displaying a second photographing page, and displaying a timing identifier on the second photographing page; and if the timing identifier is updated as a preset identifier, photographing the photographing object on the basis of the photographing template.