MultiLink

CDI's MultiLink technology allows you to add multiple resolution hyperlinks to your Web pages with a minimum of effort. Given a MultiLink-enabled DOI, you can add the corresponding dropdown menu to your page with these two lines of HTML:

```

<script src="http://doi.contentdirections.com/syndicator/10.1570/dsidman"></script>
<noscript>DOI</noscript>

These lines will add the MultiLink for DOI:10.1570/dsidman to your page, like this:

The collage consists of several overlapping screenshots of the Times Online website. The main content area features a large article titled "How the survey was done" with a sub-headline "CBS won't let Amber Brich talk" and a photo of a woman. The article discusses a survey conducted by CBS and the challenges of interviewing certain individuals. To the right of the article is a sidebar with a "Bank With Us!" advertisement and a "CERTIFIED PRE-OWNED" section. Below the main article is a "NEW VEHICLES" section. The bottom of the collage shows a navigation menu with links to various sections like "Home", "News", "Sport", "Entertainment", etc. The screenshots are labeled with numbers 16.02 through 16.22, indicating different parts of the page or different versions of the site.
