PURIFICATION OF VIRUS LIKE PARTICLES

Abstract

Methods of purifying virus-like particles (VLPs) that are substantially free of process contaminants and infectious agents. The methods incorporate, for example, low-pH treatment during harvest and/or inactivation by a solvent and/or detergent during VLP capture.

Fig. 1A, 1B