

ABSTRACT

A STORAGE CABINET

- 5 The present invention discloses a storage cabinet (1) comprises a first modular unit (10) and a second modular unit (20), characterized in that the first and second modular units (10, 20) are configured to telescopically slide relative to each other in a vertical direction to adjust the height of the storage cabinet (1), wherein one of the modular units (10, 20) includes a bracket member (15) affixed at a designated position
- 10 along its body, being configured to engage with a portion of the other modular unit (10, 20) to support one modular unit (10, 20) above the other, and to secure the height of the storage cabinet (1).

(Fig. 5)