

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides technology that enables easy comprehension of a situation of a profit imparted in a format that is suitable for a user, in order to improve a sense of belonging to a corporation, and motivation. This information processing device includes an imparted value information storage means for storing imparted value information including an imparted value calculated on the basis of a designated index and information regarding a rights-executable period of the imparted value, an imparted value information acquisition means for acquiring the imparted value information from the imparted value information storage means, and an output control means for outputting the presence of the imparted value information to a predetermined user when there is an imparted value regarding which rights can be executed by the predetermined user at the present or in the future, within the imparted value information acquired by the imparted value information acquisition means.