

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

INSPECTION HEAD USED FOR MAGNETIC DISK INSPECTING APPARATUS

An inspection head is used for an inspecting apparatus that inspects whether there is an abnormal projection on a disk surface having a first lubrication layer, and floats over the disk surface. The inspection head includes a floating surface covered with a second lubrication layer that is repellent to the first lubrication layer.

Figure 1.