

ABSTRACT

A control member 76 for controlling transmission and blocking of a rotational force by a clutch is rotatably supported by a supporting member which supports a developing frame. a locking portion provided on the control member 5 76 rotates between a position retracted from a locked portion of the clutch and a position for engaging with the locked portion.