

Sinter paste with coated silver oxide on noble and non-noble surfaces that are difficult to sinter

Abstract

5 The present invention relates to a mixture containing metal oxide particles that are coated with an organic compound, and a method for connecting components, in which said mixture is used. The present invention also relates to a module that is produced using said mixture and to a method for producing the mixture described above.