

ABSTRACT

A room unit that is assembled at a site to form a building including a plurality of the room units includes: a floor slab; and a permanent formwork provided integrally with the floor slab and serving as a formwork for at least one of a column or a wall.