

ABSTRACT

The embodiments disclose a warning method, apparatus, device and computer storage medium. The method includes that: multiple frames of images obtained by photographing a game table are acquired, the game table including a placement region configured for placing a token; and in a case of determining that a game enters a settlement stage based on at least one frame of first image in the frames of images, in response to determining, according to at least one frame of second image in the frames of images, that a gamer of the game changes the token in the placement region, warning information is output, the at least one frame of second image being shot in a case where the game enters the settlement stage.

[FIG. 2]