

FLOATING BODY FOR OFFSHORE WIND TURBINE

ABSTRACT

5 A floating body for an offshore wind turbine includes: one first column; two second columns; two lower hulls connecting the first column to each of the second columns; and a beam member connecting the two lower hulls. The beam member is disposed within a height range between an upper surface and a lower surface of each lower hull.

10 Figure 1