SYSTEM AND METHOD FOR LOCATION-BASED NODE MANAGEMENT IN A WIRELESS CHARGING NETWORK

ABSTRACT

A plurality of wireless charging systems may be employed within a network at a venue or other physical area to precisely locate a battery-operated node of the network. The location of the node may then be used to manage a transaction between that node and another node within the network when the transaction is associated with that precise location.

Fig. 1