

ABSTRACTLOCATION IDENTIFICATION DEVICE, LOCATION IDENTIFICATION METHOD, AND PROGRAM

A location identification unit (7) calculates a location indicated by a weighted average of an estimated location and a beacon location, as a location of the device itself. Thereby, it is possible to reduce errors due to a range of carrier wave emission performed by the beacon, and to identify a location where the device itself is present.

Fig. 2