

Abstract

An index acquisition module (101) of an abnormality determination system (1) acquires an index usable in abnormality determination about an occurrence of abnormality in a service providing system (2) for providing a predetermined service. A plan data acquisition (103) module acquires plan data about a plan of the service. An abnormality determination module (102) executes the abnormality determination based on the index and the plan data.