METHOD FOR FORMING REINFORCED INTERCONNECTS ON A SUBSTRATE

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

A method for forming reinforced interconnects or bumps on a substrate includes first forming a support structure on the substrate. A substantially filled capsule is then formed around the support structure to form an interconnect. The interconnect can reach a height of up to 300 microns.

Fig. 6B