

ABSTRACT

Provided in the present disclosure are a video generation method and apparatus, and a device and a storage medium. The method comprises: upon receiving a preset trigger operation for a target video editing template, firstly, displaying photographing indication information of storyboard lenses corresponding to the target video editing template, wherein the photographing indication information is used for indicating photographing modes and/or photographing content features corresponding to the storyboard lenses; then, respectively acquiring user materials for each storyboard lens; and according to the acquired user materials, generating a target result video corresponding to the target video editing template. Therefore, by means of the embodiments of the present disclosure, photographing indication information of storyboard lenses in a target video editing template can be used for instructing the acquisition of user materials, and then, a target result video is generated according to the acquired user materials, thereby enriching video generation manners and improving the user experience.